B. Program Assisted Instruction (PAI) Report

The final report of the Instructional Systems Study Group found that PAI can effectively be applied to our training courses on a selected basis, and that Computer Assisted Instruction (CAI) may be an effective way of meeting future training requirements. Twelve OTR instructors took an internal course in PAI and developed eight useful short programs in training areas of operations, support, intelligence and language. We have purchased a video recorder system and plan to test its application to PAI techniques.

the results

A joint OTR/TSD survey was made of of which reaffirmed the training and research missions of that Ease and the retention of responsibilities for management by the Office of Training.

"Stockholders" Report

We have prepared an annual report for each Directorate and for the Office of the Director which shows their participation in OTR internal and external training programs. Areas of training rather than specific courses are emphasized. Statistics are presented by Office (or Division) in numbers of students and student days. The reports permit comparisons to total Agency participation.

E. Analysis of Courses and Students

We examined all courses in regard to their content and objectives. Each training hour was analyzed; several courses have been changed and most now have new or revised syllabi. The suitability of students attending OTR courses was reviewed.

The results indicated that, with few exceptions, most students were qualified to attend the courses and that the courses were suitable to their career development.

IV. The Agency's Image

A. External Briefings

We conducted 240 briefings for people at 9 government institutions and 18 briefings for people at 19 non-government institutions. For the most part, these briefings covered topics such as the Agency's mission and functions and the Agency's role in the Intelligence Community.

B. Special Briefings of Senior Officials

Special briefings were given to 23 officials at the general, ambassadorial, or like civilian rank who were destined for foreign posts or to other special assignments.
